REVIEWER COMMENTS

Comments directed to the author may be typed within this form or on a separate sheet. Please remember that this form will be returned to the author(s). Therefore, in your comments intended for the author(s), do not make statements about the acceptability of a paper; suggested revisions should be stated as such and not expressed as conditions of acceptance. The following is a simple guide to assist in your review. Please feel free to expand as necessary. Criticism should be presented dispassionately; offensive remarks are not acceptable. Constructive comments with suggestions for improvements, not just criticisms. It is recommended that you make a copy of the review for your files. The manuscript may be returned to you for a second review, particularly if the requested modification was extensive. In addition, if the manuscript is resubmitted after rejection, the new version may be sent to you for review. In either case, you will need to evaluate the author's responses to your original criticisms.
